Use Mazolathe Oil from Corn for Cooking and Saladsand learn the chief secretof good cooking and digestible food FROM every standpoint, Mazola meets the needs of the thrifty, patriotic housewife who wants to serve the best of food.

It is a vegetable oil (pressed from Indian corn)-enables her to save animal fats, butter, lard, suet.

Mazola gives better results because it does not burn easily. It quickly crisps the outside of fried and sautéd foods and makes them light, flaky, and easy to digest. For shortening it is wonderful. Always ready to use needs no melting. Saves time, works perfectly. Mazola makes a perfect salad dressing too-easier to mix than an olive oil dressing and has a delicate richness all its own. And Mazola is the most economical cooking medium of high quality that you can use -never carries taste or odor from one food to another. Thus it can be used over and over again without wasting a drop. For sale in pints, quarts, half gallons and gallons. For greater economy buy the large
